MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Science and Technology
FROM: Director of Central Intelligence
SUBJECT: Lecture on Overhead Systems to Naval War College

1. A good friend of mine is currently the President of the United States Naval War College. He is interested in getting his students an introduction to overhead reconnaissance systems and how they may interact with the ~~technical~~ commander. He asked me if it would be possible to have someone lecture at the Secret level on overhead systems.

2. I don't want to load you down with an extraneous chore, but I would like to explore whether you think we could do something here that would be useful without making it too big an effort.

Dear Bill,

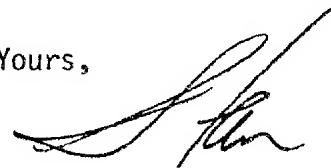

Thanks for your nice letter of 14 June. I am delighted that Arthur Jacobs commented on the Godfrey article in your July issue. I suspect that I will be very happy to stand by my submission to you for the October edition, if it fits with the other things you have.

If and when you need any help in looking at how Congress gets its intelligence information, we will be glad to be of assistance. Bob Bowie probably has the best sources of information on that, but we will pull in anyone who would be helpful to you.

Thanks for your nice words on the job we are doing here. It is a challenge indeed but a lot of fun. I do appreciate your support.

All the best.

Yours,

STANSFIELD TURNER

Dear Al,

25X1 Thanks for your usual thoughtfulness in sending 25X1 a letter commending [redacted] I was really very 25X1 pleased to receive it. You had been so praiseworthy of [redacted] that I had concern as to whether anyone was going to fit in fully to your satisfaction. I am more than pleased that [redacted] has been able to do this.

We've never yet had that luncheon or at least relaxed visit together during your trips back here.
Neither of our schedules gets any lighter--let's just try to set the time aside before too long. We'll be waiting for a call.

Best to Pat and to you.

Yours,

STANSFIELD TURNER
